SAFETY MEETING

THE ANNUAL MANDATORY SAFETY MEETING

The Safety Meeting for CALS will be on March 14 at 11 am. MAKE NOTE THAT DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME BEGINS THAT DAY. Be sure to set your clocks ahead. There were a number of modified rules last year, and they have to be reiterated this year so that they can be properly applied. However, there are more changes this year. It is one of those backwards situations in life where in order to help you have to suffer the dreaded safety meeting. So, if you will be helping on Run Days or operating at any time, you need to be at Hamilton Station at the appointed hour. Whether engineering, conducting, or helping out at the station, you need to know the rules. Come to the meeting for the read-through and sign the attendance sheet. If you miss the meeting you have to sit with a Board member to go through the rules.

WATERLESS AND WATERMORE

Hamilton Station remains without water. At least that made it easier to protect against freezing in case the snow storms resulted in loss of power and heat, but the snow makes it very difficult for the City even to consider getting into the leaf dump area to fix the broken water pipe. On the other hand, on the other side of the Park, the City was dumping snow which had been collected off the streets of the city. They had a front-end loader piling up the snow dumped from trucks. Piling up the snow and breaking the fire hydrant beside the pile. Understand that while CALS had no water on the west side, there was water on the east side, serving the mansion and Outward Bound and the hydrant. But Outward Bound was hosting a national meeting and needed water. So, the hydrant flowed for 10 days before it could be fixed. The amount of damage to the Park is not known yet.

TCA STILL COMING IN JUNE

June is just around the corner. Unfortunately, the corner is still covered with snow! There is a lot to do before the June 23 visit by the national convention of the Train Collectors Association. Again, note that the date is a WEDNESDAY. Whenever the snow clears and the ground dries a bit, we need to finish the track to and through the station. It seems out of the question now to get anything done in the yard – but we can try. Please be planning to help out with the Wednesday and Saturday work sessions if you live in the Baltimore region. Whether you help beforehand or not, PLEASE think about helping on June 23rd.

PUBLICITY FOR CALS

The Friends of Gwynns Falls and Leakin Parks has an article in its upcoming newsletter about CALS. There is a possibility that each issue can have an article or at least a reminder about our Second Sunday operations. Also, the Hunting Ridge community newsletter will have an article this spring. We should be happy about such notoriety, and if anyone has ideas for subjects to include in such newsletters or other avenues for publicity, please help out or tell a board member.

PHOTO CONTEST

Now officially: The Friends of Gwynns Falls and Leakin Parks is sponsoring a photo contest now. The photographs must be from the year preceding May 15 and must have been taken in a Baltimore City Park, such as our Leakin Park. Entries can be made by adults or youths (under 18) in any of four categories: Wildlife, Plants, Landscapes and structures, and People. Hope to have the registration form on calslivesteam.org.

UPDATED CALS APPLICATION FORM

The board has been discussing an updated application form for several months. It has now been approved and should be available on the Society website and at Hamilton station. The form now uses both sides of the sheet in order to provide more room for information and for additional questions. Much of the information can be provided on an optional basis as specified on the form.

100 YEARS OF RAILS IN PETERSBURG, WV

See Prestige Rail Marketing at <http://wvrails2010.com/index.php>

West Virginia Rails 2010 celebrates 100 years of the railroad built by the B&O Railroad from the Potomac to Petersburg in WEST Virginia (on the way to Cass for many of you). During the Friday to Saturday weekend of June 25-27, The Potomac Eagle Scenic Railroad will be offering a rare steam railroading experience along the South Branch of the Potomac, including use of Western Maryland Scenic's #748 Consolidation. Steam and diesel locomotives from around the country will be on display. Huge model train layouts will be set up. Railroad vendors from around the globe will have items for purchase (Your editor will be there with the B&O Historical Society Store.). All day excursion or shorter one-hour train rides behind various vintage locomotives will be available. You will even be able to pull the throttle and blow the whistle on one of these steam locomotives. Scale miniature trains, gauge unknown at this time, will be hauling passengers around the grounds of the event as well.

While CALS does not expect to have an official contingent there, members can contact the promoters. But remember that TCA will have been at our track site on Wednesday and we need your participation and help for that event.

ACTIVITY NOTES

More snow – record amount in Baltimore for a storm, the month, and the year. And temperatures which were not severely cold but just never got above freezing for a couple of weeks. Thus the snow remains ...

The result was no access to our facilities until the City used a front-end loader to clear a narrow path in the roadway from Windsor Mill Road. Then there was the slow process of digging out. Bob Schwoerer started up the Massey-Ferguson and used the front bucket to start plowing a path from the container to the gate. A Wednesday crew was able to shovel a couple of pathways for access to Hamilton Station. One path also provided access for Carroll Fuel to fill the heating oil tank as we were on their ‘low fuel, no access’ list. The path was 175 feet long as measured by the full length of hose dragged from the fuel truck to the tank – inches to spare.

Inside HS there was a good supply of ties and rails, plus a new supply of washers; so track building continued. A decision still has to be made whether to buy just new batteries for the drills or to buy new drill/battery packages. Track sections are filling container #4 to the brim because track-laying appears to be many weeks off.

Mike Schroeder worked on the mower currently in Hamilton Station and Tim Allen helped.

Still no water at Hamilton Station.
